Admiralty-Office, March 22.

A DISPATCH, of which the following is a Copy, has been received at this Office from Sir William Sidney Smith.

Diamond, off Cape Frehel, March 18, 1796.

SIR,

HAVING received Information that the Armed Veſſels detached by the Prince of Bouillon had chaſed a Convoy, conſiſting of a Corvette, Two Luggers, Four Brigs, and Two Sloops, into Herqui, I proceeded off that Port, to reconnoitre their Poſition and ſound the Channel, which I found very narrow and intricate. I ſucceeded, however, in gaining a Knowledge of theſe Points ſufficient to determine me to attack them, in the Diamond, without Loſs of Time, and without waiting for the Junction of any Part of the Squadron, leſt the Enemy ſhould fortify themſelves ſtill further on our Appearance.

Lieutenant M'Kinley, of the Liberty Brig, and Lieutenant Goſſet, of the Ariſtocrat Lugger, joined me off the Cape, and, though not under my Orders, very handſomely offered their Services, which I accepted, as ſmall Veſſels were eſſentially neceſſary in ſuch an Operation. The permanent Fortification for the Defence of the Bay are Two Batteries on a high rocky Promontory. We obſerved the Enemy to be very buſily employed in mounting a detached Gun on a very commanding Point of the Entrance. At One o'Clock Yeſterday Afternoon this Gun opened upon us as we paſſed: The Diamond's Fire however ſilenced it in Eleven Minutes. The others opened on us as we came round the Point, and their commanding Situation giving them a decided Advantage over a Ship in our Poſition, I judged it neceſſary to adopt another Mode of Attack, and accordingly detached the Marines and Boarders to land behind the Point, and take the Batteries in the Rear. As the Boats approached the Beach they met with a warm Reception, and a temporary Check, from a Body of Troops drawn up to oppoſe their Landing: The Situation was critical, the Ship being expoſed to a moſt galling Fire, and in intricate Pilotage, with a conſiderable Portion of her Men thus detached. I pointed out to Lieutenant Pine the apparent Practicability of climbing the Precipice in Front of the Batteries, which he readily perceived, and, with an Alacrity and Bravery of which I have had many Proofs in the Courſe of our Service together, he undertook and executed this hazardous Service, landing immediately under the Guns, and rendering himſelf Maſter of them before the Column of Troops could regain the Heights. The Fire from the Ship was directed to cover our Men in this Operation; it checked the Enemy in their Advancement, and the Re-embarkation was effected, as ſoon as the Guns were ſpiked, without the Loſs of a Man, though we have to regret Lieutenant Carter of the Marines being dangerouſly wounded on this Occaſion.

The Enemy's Guns, Three Twenty-four Pounders, being ſilenced and rendered uſeleſs for the Time, we proceeded to attack the Corvette and the other Armed Veſſels, which had by this Time opened their Fire on us, to cover the Operation of hauling themſelves on Shore. The Diamond was anchored as cloſe to the Corvette as her Draft of Water would allow. The Liberty Brig was able to approach near, and on this Occaſion I cannot omit to mention the very gallant and judicious Manner in which Lieutenant M'Kinley, her Commander, brought this Veſſel into Action, profiting by her light Draft of Water to follow the Corvette cloſe. The Enemy's Fire ſoon ſlackened, and the Crew being obſerved to be making for the Shore on the Engliſh Colours being hoiſted on the Hill, I made the Signal for the Boats, manned and armed, to board, directing Lieutenant Goſſet, in the Lugger, to cover them. This Service was executed by the Party from the Shore, under under the Direction of Lieutenant Pine, in a Manner that does them infinite Credit, and him every Honour, as a brave Man and an able Officer. The Enemy's Troops occupied the high projecting Rocks all round the Veſſels, from whence they kept up an inceſſant Fire of Muſquetry; and the utmoſt that could be effected at the Moment was to ſet Fire to the Corvette, (named L'Etourdie, of 16 Guns, Twelve-Pounders, on the Main Deck) and one of the Merchant Brigs, ſince as the Tide fell the Enemy preſſed down on the Sands, cloſe to the Veſſels; Lieutenant Pine therefore returned on Board, having received a ſevere Contuſion on the Breaſt from a Muſquet Ball. As the Tide roſe again it became practicable to make a ſecond Attempt to burn the remaining Veſſels. Lieutenant Pearſon was accordingly detached for that Purpoſe with the Boats, and I am happy to add, his gallant Exertions ſucceeded to the utmoſt of my Hopes, notwithſtanding the renewed and heavy Fire of Muſquetry from the Shore. This Fire was returned with great Spirit and evident good Effect; and I was much pleaſed with the Conduct of Lieutenant Goſſet, in the hired Lugger, and Mr. Knight, in the Diamond's Launch, who covered the Approach and Retreat of the Boats. The Veſſels were all burnt except an Armed Lugger, which kept up her Fire to the laſt.

The Wind and Tide ſuiting at Ten at Night to come out of the Harbour again, we weighed, and repaſſed the Point of Herqui, from which we received a few Shot, the Enemy having found Means to reſtore one of the Guns to Activity. Our Loſs, as appears by the encloſed Return, is trifling, conſidering the Nature of the Enterprize, and the Length of Time we were expoſed to the Enemy's Fire. Their's, I am perſuaded, muſt have been great, from the Numbers within the Range of our Shot and Shells. The Conduct of every Officer and Man under my Command meets with my warmeſt Approbation; it would be ſuperfluous to particularize any others than thoſe I have named; ſuffice it to ſay, the characteriſtic Bravery and Activity of Britiſh Seamen never was more conſpicuous.

Lieutenant Pine will have the Honour to preſent their Lordſhips with the Colours which he ſtruck on the Battery; and I beg Leave to recommend him particularly to their Lordſhips as a moſt meritorious Officer.

I have the Honour to be, Sir,
Your moſt obedient humble Servant,
W. SIDNEY SMITH.
